1. This report consists of two sketches of the Fusilier Barracks and Putlitz Barracks of the Rostock Volkspolizei, and surrounding area, with accompanying notations as below.
2. The Fusilier Barracks and the Putlitz Barracks were formerly separated by a high wall. This wall has been torn down and the two barracks made into a unit which is occupied exclusively by the Volkspolizei. About 4,500 to 5,000 men are located here.
3. About 200 men are quartered in each of the three-story buildings. The buildings indicated by numbers on the second sketch are as follows:
 1. Officers' club
 2. Armory (building all of glass)
 3. Arms and clothing depot (new building)
 4. Staff building
 5. Drill hall (150 x 40 meters)
 6. Officers' living quarters
 7. Five ammunition magazines (fenced with barbed wire and guarded)
 8. Garage and storage for heavy infantry weapons
 9. Gas storage
4. Army ration depot: This consists of three five-story buildings with deep cellars. The buildings are 150 x 30 meters. It has a two-track railway siding with loading ramp, building No. 12 (sketch 1) is reserved for the Soviet forces and filled with canned food. Numbers 11 and 10 are for the Volkspolizei.
5. Rostock-Barnstorff target range: This occupies an area of 1,500 by 1,000 meters. There are six firing ranges, in addition to pistols and machine gun stands.

The remaining forested land is enclosed by barbed wire. An ammunition magazine is located there. In the larger magazines there are stores of old antitank rockets of various sizes. The magazines are linked by a good 2.5 meters wide asphalted street. The magazines are generally 3 x 1.5 meters in size.

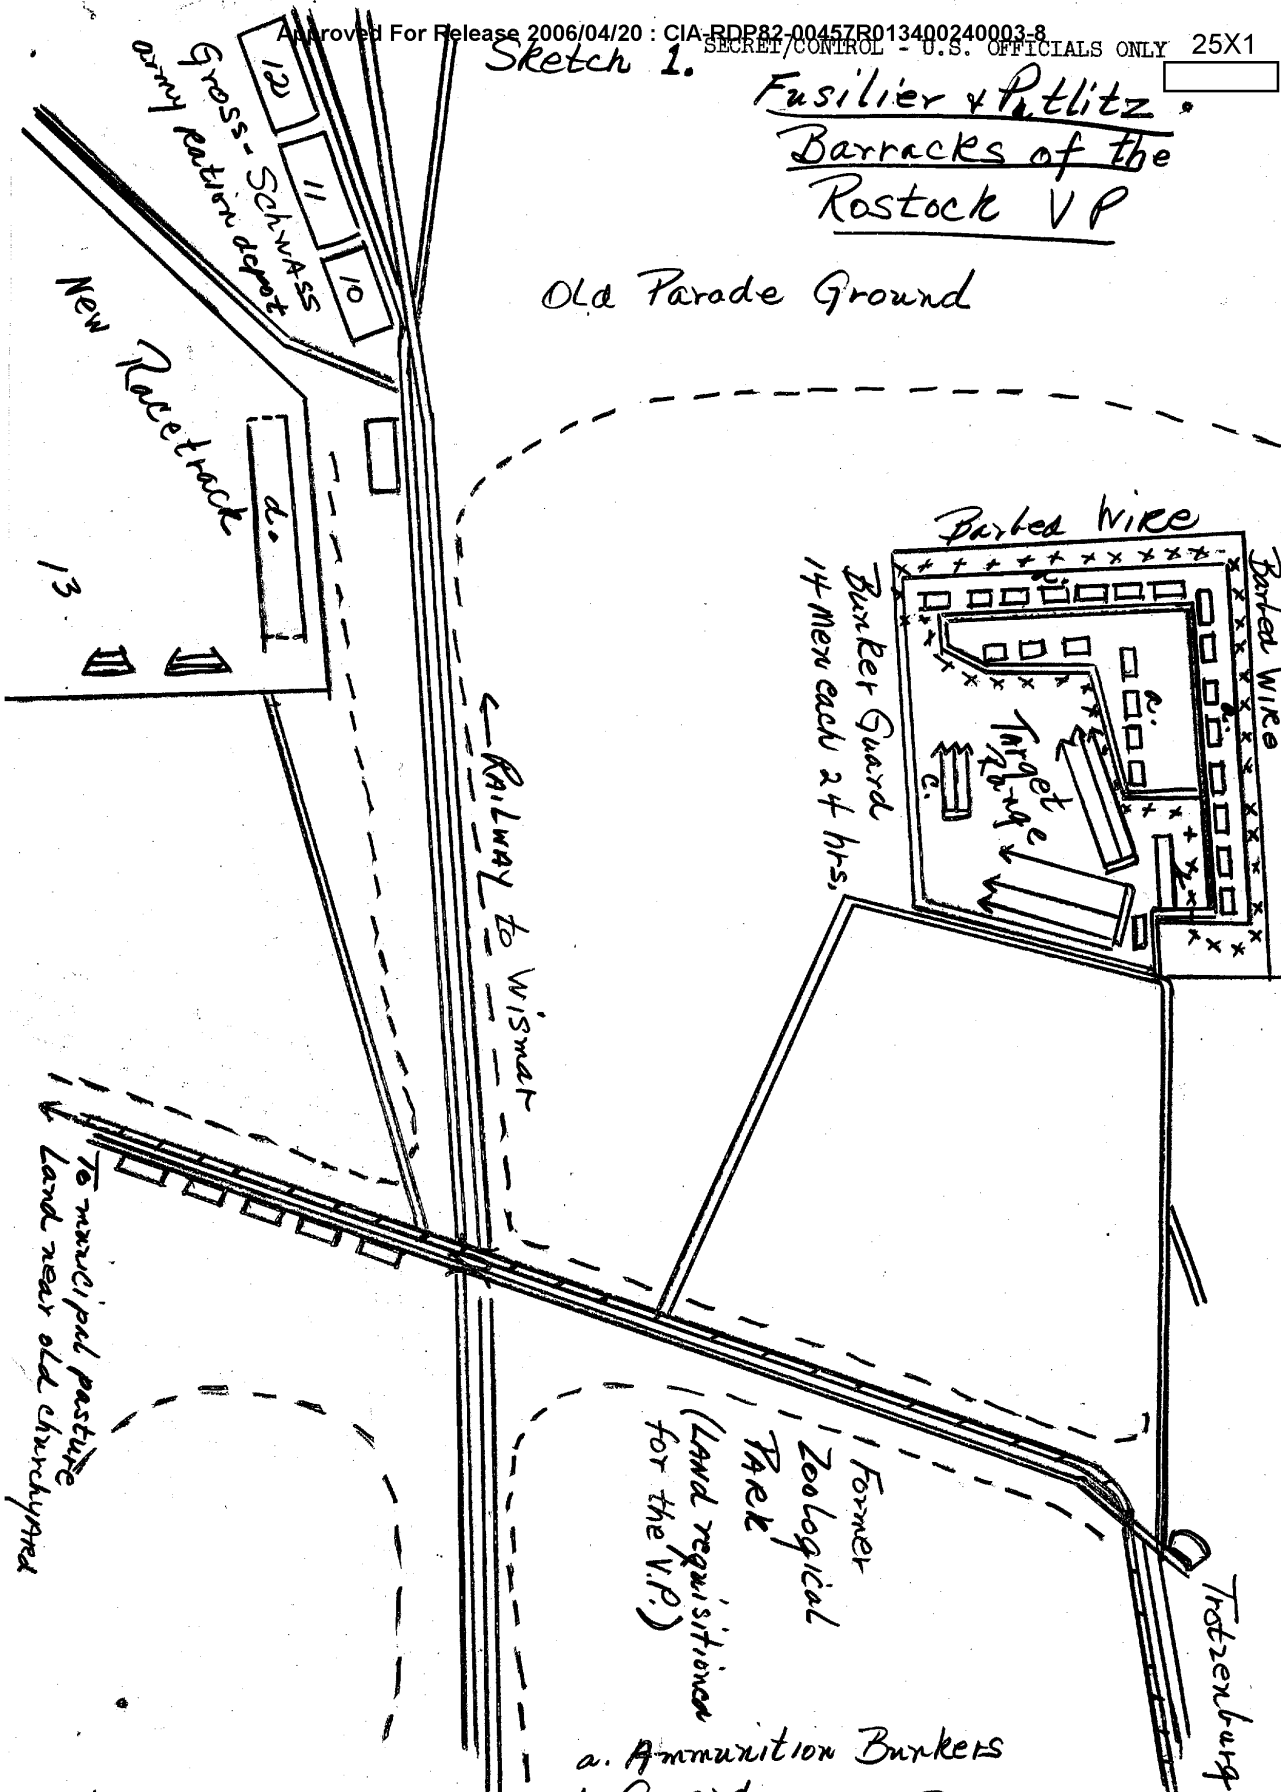

6. New Racetrack (number 13, sketch 1); The Volkspolizei recruits drill and practice close combat here. House and trench fighting are practiced on the old parade ground.
